

ABBS Signs MoU with University of Ghana to Strengthen Global Academic Collaboration

Acharya Bangalore B School \(ABBS\) Bengaluru, has signed a Memorandum of Understanding (MoU) with the University of Ghana (UG), marking a significant step towards strengthening international academic cooperation, research and cross-cultural learning between India and Ghana.

Signed on 9 September 2026, the MoU establishes a framework for collaboration in academic programmes, student mobility, faculty engagement, research and knowledge exchange. The partnership aims to create meaningful opportunities for students and faculty of both institutions to engage in international learning and collaborative academic initiatives.

A key focus of the collaboration is the development of undergraduate progression pathways, enabling eligible students from the University of Ghana to pursue postgraduate programmes at ABBS, subject to applicable admission requirements. The institutions will also explore hybrid delivery of academic and professional courses and semester-based study abroad opportunities for undergraduate and postgraduate students.

The MoU provides for joint research projects, publications, research supervision, innovation initiatives and faculty exchange, including teaching, curriculum development and guest lectures. Both institutions will also collaborate on international conferences, seminars, workshops, symposiums and faculty development programmes.

The partnership further includes opportunities for short-term international immersion programmes, industry visits, internships, live consulting projects and corporate engagement. Academic resource sharing, including publications, teaching materials and research resources, will further support knowledge exchange.

Through this partnership with the University of Ghana, ABBS continues to expand its global academic network and create opportunities for student mobility, collaborative research, faculty engagement and international experiential learning, contributing to stronger academic ties between India and Ghana.

Office of International Relations

Dr. Nita Samantaray
Manager - Outreach & Communication
Acharya Bangalore B School (ABBS)
Email: dr.nita@abbs.edu.in