

ABBS and University of Ibadan Strengthen Academic Collaboration

Acharya Bangalore B School \(ABBS\) Bengaluru, India has strengthened its international academic engagement with the University of Ibadan, Nigeria, following a productive discussion between representatives of both institutions and an acknowledgement of their in-principle agreement to collaborate across multiple academic areas.

The proposed collaboration focuses on student mobility, academic programme delivery, research and faculty engagement. Key areas include undergraduate progression pathways, franchise or joint delivery of academic programmes in online and offline modes, semester-based study abroad opportunities, joint research involving students and faculty, and faculty exchange for teaching and academic engagement.

The partnership will also explore joint conferences, seminars, workshops and short-term international immersion programmes, along with industry visits, live projects and corporate engagement opportunities. These initiatives are intended to provide students and faculty with greater international exposure and opportunities for cross-cultural academic learning.

As immediate areas of engagement, ABBS and the University of Ibadan will explore participation in each institution's upcoming international conferences, with ABBS hosting its conference in September and the University of Ibadan organising its conference in October. The institutions also proposed monthly joint online webinars and seminars, as well as initiating one or two collaborative research papers involving faculty members from both sides.

Another proposed area is the exploration of scholarship opportunities for University of Ibadan students to pursue studies at ABBS or participate in short-term international immersion programmes.

The acknowledgement marks a positive step towards building a long-term and mutually beneficial academic partnership, creating new avenues for global learning, research collaboration and institutional engagement between India and Nigeria.
